SUMMARY OF COURSE

In this course, you will use a realist philosophical framework to explore critical issues and practice in contemporary Visual Arts Education. Investigations of the complex relationships between practices in art and art education, creativity, and the nature of students' learning in art will provide a basis on which you can then critically examine a range of issues in curriculum design, implementation and assessment in Visual Arts in school, state, national and global contexts. Curriculum fads including visual literacy, visual culture and STEAM will be critically analysed in relation to the ways in which they may distort or support curriculum in Visual Arts.

THE MAIN WAYS IN WHICH THE COURSE HAS CHANGED SINCE LAST TIME AS A RESULT OF STUDENT FEEDBACK:

- Course content will include deeper inquiry into contemporary developments in Visual Arts curricula in national and state contexts.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

Outcomes	Assessment/s
1 Identify and explain the significance of particular issues and practice from a realist perspective including relations between art and art education and implications for their own practice and pedagogical choices with students	1, 2
2 Identify and explain how constraints function at a particular time in regard to relations between art, art education and practice in curriculum development and its assessment and in relation to what is possible for students to understand developmentally	1, 2
3 Understand how the innovations of the body of work and frames inform their own understandings in art education and the pedagogical choices available to them while marking our future trajectories for Visual Arts education	2
4 Identify the structural limitations of visual literacy and visual culture approaches internationally and assess their perceived political advantage of aligning the visual arts in education with either a basics approaches to the curriculum or the promotion of a deconstructivist agenda	2
5 Represent a range of meta narratives that explain powerful relationships between current curriculum concepts and concepts within the subject of the Visual Arts while understanding the significance of the artefact of curriculum construction as an outcome of practice that is historically and contextually dependent	1, 2

PROGRAM LEARNING OUTCOMES

Outcomes	Assessment/s
1 Demonstrate an advanced understanding of the field of education as it relates to their specialist area of study, and the ability to synthesize and apply disciplinary principles and practices to new or complex environments.	1, 2
2 Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of research-based learning and the ability to plan, analyse, present, implement and evaluate complex activities that contribute to advanced professional practice and/or intellectual scholarship in education	1, 2
3 Demonstrate advanced critical thinking and problem-solving skills	1, 2
4 Communicate effectively to a range of audiences, and be capable of independent and collaborative enquiry and team-based leadership	1, 2
5 Demonstrate an understanding of international perspectives relevant to the educational field	1, 2
6 Demonstrate an advanced capacity to recognise and negotiate the complex and often contested values and ethical practices that underlie education	1, 2

4. RATIONALE FOR THE INCLUSION OF CONTENT AND TEACHING APPROACH

Offered in an online environment the course will rely on your experience as a teacher as the foundation on which ideas presented in the readings will be introduced and against which they will be critiqued. We will use these experiences as both a lens through which to examine the content and develop responses focused in the assignments. The teaching, learning, and assessment activities in this course are designed to provide opportunities for students to develop theoretical and practical knowledge and understandings of contemporary issues in visual arts education that extend beyond those addressed in undergraduate programs and school based professional development. The approach will contribute to students' critically evaluating published chapters, articles, curriculum proposals and legislated documents in order to enhance their understanding of how various issues are represented in educational and art education discourses and as they relate to practices in classrooms. Further, active participation in the course will facilitate students' capacities to analyse, evaluate and interpret current issues in art education within broader educational and art frameworks and from theoretically informed points of view to provide you with flexibility to engage in individual and collaborative inquiry. The teaching approach is informed by recent research and practice on student thinking and learning and effective teaching which has emphasised the importance of the student perspective.

5. TEACHING STRATEGIES

The course will be offered online with several seminar meetings via virtual platforms. The course is designed to provide a collaborative and mutually supportive environment in which you and other professionals can contribute to online discussions to capture the evolution of common thinking about critical issues and practices in visual arts education. In order to develop both theoretical and practical knowledge and understandings, the course will involve selected readings, teacher input, (re)view of short video clips and other media, peer discussion, structured research activities and individual reflection which will provide students with opportunities to engage deeply, dialogically, and reflexively with the topics and their application.

6. COURSE CONTENT AND STRUCTURE

All required readings are available on the course Moodle site or through the library. Selected recommended readings will be added to Moodle during the semester subject to their availability and their meeting copyright requirements.

Please note the readings highlighted in blue are included in the text assigned to this course.

Assessment task 1: Response paper

Length: 3000 words

Weight: 50%

Task description:

Response paper. Explain your understandings of philosophical realism in Art Education and related issues and practices. Critically explain how your own thinking about art education has been challenged, extended and elaborated on through your developing understanding of philosophical realism and related issues and practices as covered in the first four weeks of this course. Which aspects to date have been most significant in reshaping your thinking and potential choices as an art educator? Be specific and explain how.

Refer explicitly to at least six of the course readings (Modules 1 & 2) and class discussions in your response. Use a range of examples from your knowledge of art education, your school experience and where appropriate make reference to selected recommended readings to support your explanation.

Assessment task 2: Investigation

Length: 3000 words

Weight: 50%

Task description:

Investigate an issue/practice in detail from the questions below:

- a. Explain how philosophical realism underpins much of the approach to NSW Visual Arts syllabus development and its assessment in art education in NSW within the constraints of the BOSTES' syllabus development process.

Refer explicitly to at least six of the course readings and class discussions in your response. Use a range of examples from your knowledge of art education, your school experience and where appropriate make reference to selected recommended readings to support your explanation.

Or

- b. Explain how the frames and the body of work as explained in NSW Visual Arts syllabuses denaturalise popularist assumptions for teachers and their students and student performances in artmaking and critical and historical studies of the visual arts.

Refer explicitly to at least six of the course readings and class discussions in your response. Use a range of examples from your knowledge of art education, your school experience and where appropriate make reference to selected recommended readings to support your explanation.

Or

- c. Consider the politics of Australian curriculum development in the arts with a special focus on art education in recent years. Given the issues and practices raised in this course, explain why NSW art educators have been so resistant to what has been proposed.

Refer explicitly to at least six of the course readings and class discussions in your response. Use a range of examples from your knowledge of art education, your school experience and where appropriate make reference to selected recommended readings to support your explanation.

Depending on the nature of the assessment task, lecturers may also contextualize and/or amend these specific criteria. The recommended grade is tentative only, subject to standardisation processes and approval by the School of Education Learning and Teaching Committee.
