Summary of the Course

In this course, you will have an opportunity to build on or extend interests developed in your specialist area of education by undertaking a self-directed minor thesis, supported by a supervising academic, in your area of specialisation. The minor thesis must demonstrate synthesis and application of knowledge and skills developed in coursework components of your specialisation to address a particular problem or issue.

This is a 12UOC course. You will enrol in 6UOC in two successive terms, with the result for the course reported at the end of the second 6UOC course.

Entry into this course is conditional on the following:

- The achievement of at least a WAM of 75 (or equivalent) in the Master of Education/ Master of Educational Leadership for courses studied up to the term immediately preceding the term in which EDST5889 is commenced (students must have completed 24UOC of study in the Master of Education/Master of Educational Leadership and the approved 6UOC research methods course prior to the commencement of EDST5889). For students who wish to study EDST5889 as part of the Educational Research specialisation of the Graduate Certificate in Education, a WAM of at least 75 (or equivalent) must be achieved in most recently completed degree.
- Successful performance in an interview where questions will be asked about the student's interest in, and commitment to, studies in research
- Availability of a suitable supervisor

The course provides students with the opportunity to complete an individual research project. Upon successful completion of the course and relevant program (i.e., Master of Education, Master of Educational Leadership or the Educational Research specialisation of the Graduate Certificate in Education), students may be eligible to be considered for entry into research degree programs (e.g., Ph.D.) at UNSW and other universities (subject to WAM and any other entry requirements of these research degree programs).

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Specify a suitable topic for a minor thesis research project and justify its significance, relevance and feasibility.
2. Locate and critically evaluate a wide range of literature relevant to a topic of interest in education.
3. Use appropriate research methodology to obtain and analyse data in an investigation of a topic of interest in education.
4. Report and interpret the significance of the findings in relation to underlying theory and practice.

Teaching Strategies

Rationale: This course is being offered to provide students with an opportunity to undertake an independent supervised research project (equivalent to an honours thesis) in a specific area of their specialisation in education. The course will also enable students to develop a deeper reflective approach to education and demonstrate the ability to analyse, evaluate, synthesise and apply knowledge and skills from earlier stages of their program.

Teaching strategies: You will work independently and have access to a project supervisor throughout two consecutive terms. One-on-one meetings with supervisors may cover any issues relating to the conduct of an independent research project in your area of specialisation, including a review of the literature, the formulation of research questions, research design, ethical approval, research instruments, data collection, data analyses, interpretation of data analyses, and the write up of research.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: Using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This includes copying materials, ideas or concepts from a book, article, report or other written document, presentation, composition, artwork, design, drawing, circuitry, computer program or software, website, internet, other electronic resource, or another person's assignment without appropriate acknowledgement.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original information, structure and/or progression of ideas of the original without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another's ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: Working with others but passing off the work as a person's individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student for the purpose of them plagiarising, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person's academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person's work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): Submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices

The UNSW Academic Skills support offers resources and individual consultations. Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study. One of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study. Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time
- understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
- be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
- be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
- locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library
